CROWNING the plans and labor of many years, the congregation of First Evangelical United Brethren Church will see the dedication of the new church building Sunday Sharing in the services and conducting the dedication will be the denomination's Bishop Fred L. Dennis of Dayton.

There will be special morning and evening services, and an afternoon service of dedication for the church organ will feature guest musicians, Robert Campbell of Elkhart, Ind., formerly of Marion, and Rev. John Searle Jr of Dayton.

The church, termed by residents one of the finest ever constructed in Marion, is a Gothic type structure of hand-hewn Bloomfield stone with Indiana limestone trim, located at the site of the old church building at 227 S. Prospect St The Rev. Don Hochstettler is pastor.

Planning for the new building began even before World War I, when far-seeing church people realized that the growing congregation would some day need much more room for expansion The building at the time, of brick, was nearly 100 years old, with a 1903 addition It was demolished to make way for the new edifice, work beginning two years ago. Until late this summer, when the new church was ready for occupation, the congregation held Sunday morning services at the YMCA

Commodious Seating Facilities

Seating capacity of the new church sanctuary is 500, and the basement will accommodate 500 as Sunday School, Parish Hall or auditorium. Measurements are 110 by 38 feet. The tower rises about 45 feet Cost was $185,000 The building fund, started long ago, was added to from time to time, with many organizations of the church and individuals contributing Ground-breaking ceremonies were June 20, 1949 A considerable amount of work inside and out has been done by members and the pastor voluntarily contributing time and labor.

Planned to care for a variety of needs of the congregation, the new building takes care of not only the major purposes of worship and Sunday School, but provides a place for the social life of the

Jury To Get Alter Murder Case Today

COLUMBUS, Nov 9—(AP)—The second-degree murder trial of George Phillips, 23, charged with the slaying of Mrs. Ruth Alter, was expected to go to the jury today,

All that remained was completion of final arguments by Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett and Defense Attorney Paul M. Herbert.

Herbert said yesterday the prosecution had shown only a "shred" of motive that could have caused the one-armed Phillips to murder Mrs Alter

The only motive shown, Herbert said, "was an incident three years ago when Phillips and Mrs. Alter exchanged words—a

Call Off Truce Talk, No Results

MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 9—(AP)—Truce negotiators canceled their afternoon meeting today after an "inconclusive and unproductive" morning session

A United Nations command communique, which described the talks as fruitless, said negotiators would meet tomorrow at 11 a.m. (9 p.m Friday EST).

Brig Gen. William P Nuckols, U. N spokesman, said he got the impression Communist representatives might be stalling.

Allied sources suggested the Reds might be waiting for new instructions in view of Soviet foreign minister Andrei Vishinsky's proposal Thursday in Paris for a cease-fire within ten days. Vishinsky suggested all troops withdraw from the 38th Parallel and foreign units leave Korea within three months.

Nuckols said neither Vishinsky nor the 38th Parallel were mentioned during Friday's two hour and 45 minute meeting in a dirty yellow tent in Panmunjom.

Czech Envoy To U.S. Said Top Red Spy

Col. Oto Biheler Named by Senate Security Committee

WASHINGTON, Nov 9—(AP)—A Czech diplomat assigned to duty here has been described by Senate internal security investigators as a top Communist spy.

He was named by Senators McCarran (D-Nev) and O'Conor (D-Md) last night as Col Oto Biheler, military and air attache to the Czechoslovakian embassy. The senators said he is now in Czechoslovakia

McCarran, chairman of the Senate internal security committee, said "it is known to our intelligence agents that Biheler, for two years, has been gathering information on this country's research into bacteriological warfare and atomic weapons and other advanced methods of defense."

"Key Figure"

In a separate statement, O'Conor described the Czech as "a key figure in the Communist espionage apparatus in the United States." O'Conor heads a subcommittee which has been probing into the administration of provisions of the internal security law relating to subversive aliens

That act, passed last year over President Truman's veto, allows the Justice Department to bar subversive aliens from this country or deport them even if they have diplomatic status.

O'Conor said the information he detailed about Biheler's activities was confirmed in a secret hearing over which he presided Wednesday.

At the State Department, officials said there would be no comment, at least until they had seen the senatorial reports No one in authority was available for comment at the Czech embassy.

Criticize Action

Both McCarran and O'Conor coupled their discussions of Biheler with new criticism of the State and Justice Departments over the way the internal security act is being administered.

Declaring that the record of Biheler is "typical of hundreds" of cases which have been handled by O'Conor's subcommittee in recent months, McCarran said:

"It would seem that the State Department does not wish to impede the activities of these people and the Justice Department does not recognize the authority Congress has given it"

CIO Re-elects Phil Murray

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(AP)—Philip Murray, 65-year-old former coal miner, was re-elected today to his 12th year as president of the CIO after a confetti-throwing demonstration by shouting convention delegates.

Election of officers followed the passage of resolutions calling for intensified political action next year and authorizing Murray and other officers to pursue whatever avenues toward labor unity that may develop.

Senator's Brother Announces Candidacy

Charles P. Taft To Run For Governor

CINCINNATI, Nov 9—(AP)—Charles P. Taft today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio.

He is a brother of Senator Robert A. Taft, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for President.

Charles Taft, who like his brother is an attorney, has been prominent in church work, in politics and in civic enterprises for many years.

His announcement was no surprise, since he has stumped the state for months, meeting with party leaders and making speeches.

Asked by a reporter whether he thought his entry in the political picture would damage Senator Taft's chances insofar as Ohio support is concerned, the younger brother replied:

"I do not think my entry will have anything to do with my brother's candidacy for the presidential nomination.

"That was one reason why I went throughout the state—visited 81 of the 88 counties—and I am convinced that one candidacy will not affect the other"

"Plugging For Bob"

Charley Taft said he felt certain he "could help in Ohio insofar as Bob is concerned, on state issues," and added

"I'm plugging for Bob from the start"

Reports in political circles have varied as to the reception Charley Taft's action will be given by the elder brother.

Some folks close to Senator Taft say he would rather Charley had not entered the gubernatorial contest.

In a formal statement today, Charley Taft said

"We have had a poor administration in Ohio The recent series of exposures in the Cleveland Press and other papers of the shocking conditions at the Cleveland state hospital is identical with similar publicity prior to the 1944 campaign, when Lausche (Frank J. Lausche, Democrat, incumbent governor) as a candidate for governor promised correction of these evils. Lausche has utterly failed to clean it up or apparently to improve it"

Raps Highway Dept.

Taft declared "the State Highway Department needs a thorough overhauling," and he called

Marion Visited By C. P. Taft

Marion County was one of the 81 counties in Ohio Charles P. Taft visited this summer in a survey of the support he could expect if he decided to run for governor.

While here he called on Republican party leaders and men prominent in business and industry He visited the county in September.

His most recent visit to Marion was of a non-political nature. That was last week when he presented church leaders with a national award for Marion's outstanding success with the 1950 Religion in America Life campaign. Mr. Taft is a national lay church leader and former president of the Federal Council of Churches.

Billy Goat Leads Police Merry Chase

High Jumper Has Their Nanny; Eludes Capture Three Days

By EMORY J. ANDERSON

MARION has a phantom billy goat.

When last reported it was eating clothes hanging on a line at the rear of an Oak St. residence.

The animal probably holds records in the goat world for jumping and running. It has led police officers a merry chase around the city for three days It is so fast, police can not even get near enough to shoot it

The goat is brown, with no horns, and not too large, police report It escaped from a truck at the Marion Producers Livestock Cooperative, Monday evening.

It had just been sold to G H. Harris of Hayesville, who loaded it into his truck. The goat promptly jumped out and ran before it could be caught

On Tuesday police received a report from a Campbell St. resident who saw the goat By the time they arrived at the scene the goat had disappeared.

YESTERDAY at 1:20 p m the goat was reported near the Marion Lumber Co. All police officers on duty answered the call, along with several volunteers, and the goat was cornered on a front porch.

But the animal escaped by jumping over the head of one of the policemen who had helped to corner him.

It ran around the corner of a building and disappeared again.

During the course of yesterday's chase the goat ran into W. Center St and nearly caused an accident when a driver swerved his car to miss the animal.

R. E. SMITH, office manager at the stockyards, reports police have been given permission to shoot the animal since they consider it a menace and the chances of getting close enough to catch it seem remote.

Smith said the goat was bought by the stockyard Oct. 29 for resale. He said he was put in a pen with sides nearly eight feet high The goat jumped out, but was caught again by stockyard employes.

The only way it could be kept at the stockyards last week was to put boards over the top of the pen. Stockyard officials said that unless the animal is caught and returned to his owner, they plan to refund his money.

Smith said the goat was easy to identify as its odor could be detected 50 feet away

Police said the deer reported in Marion during the week may have been the billy goat, since it looks much like a deer.

New York Boston Ports Reopened

Rebel Faction Yields To New York State Fact-Finding Panel

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(AP)—Striking longshoremen flocked back to freight-jammed piers today after their leaders agreed to end the port's billion-dollar, 25-day wildcat walkout.

Along the miles of waterfront from Hoboken and Jersey City N J, to the far reaches of Brooklyn, thousands streamed to work before the 1 p m. (EST) deadline set by their leaders

There were jobs aplenty for all at the long-idle piers In Hoboken, police were helping round up extra men.

The rebel union faction, which steamrollered the strike into New York's longest port tieup, yielded to a New York fact-finding board in the pre-dawn hours to end the strike.

No mention was made concerning settlement of intra-union differences. The dispute—principally over wage scales in a new contract and legality of the contract itself—still must be aired by the board.

114 Ships Tied Up

The strike was the costliest in the history of the world's biggest port, with piers sprawled along both New York and New Jersey.

At the peak of the walkout, 114 ships were tied up

New York State industrial commissioner Edward Corsi, who appointed the three-man inquiry panel, announced shortly before 2 a.m. (EST) that the ports of New York and Boston would be open at 1 p.m. (EST) today.

Boston was the only other port completely shut down by the strike, with other East Coast ports being affected from time to time.

In New York, an increasing number of dockers had been returning to work on non-military ships in recent days.

Corsi's announcement followed a four-hour closed meeting between representatives of rebel longshoremen and the panel.

All the stevedores are members of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, whose Atlantic Coast district represents 65,000 dock workers from Maine to Virginia.

More than 20,000 union dockers were affected by the minority walkout, which began over ratification Oct 12 of a new ILA contract with East Coast shipping and stevedoring companies. The dissident group, led by John (Gene) Sampson, went out three days later.

In announcing the back-to-work move, Corsi made no mention of concessions, if any, coming from either side He said the inquiry board would continue its public hearings on the dispute.

No Discrimination

The board urged "that there be no discrimination in hiring or rehiring" and added.

"The strike committee lent its cooperation to the board of inquiry in full recognition of the necessity of protecting the Port of New York and of the public interest"

Joseph P. Ryan, head of the ILA, said he was "very happy" that the walkout was over and there would "of course" be no discrimination against strikers in the shape-up hiring system.

The panel's statement also said further negotiations "will now proceed in an atmosphere free from tension"

The panel succeeded where federal and state mediators were forced to give up earlier in the dispute

Sampson, who was present at the board meeting, said the settlement means "approximately 25,000 men will be going back to work"

Asked by newsmen if there would be any interference with shape-ups at city docks today, Sampson said "no comment" but added: "The men will be back at work at 1 p.m."

Feud Over Control

Some observers believed that the split-up among the two union groups was touched off by the long-standing feud for union power between Ryan and Sampson. Sampson has denied this.

B-29 Crashes, 3 Dead, 1 Missing

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 9—(AP)—Three airmen were killed and one was missing in the crash of a B-29 last night, but 11 men, rushing pellmell from the crippled Superfortress, parachuted to safety.

The survivors said the No. 3 engine caught fire while the ship was on a routine training mission from nearby Randolph Air Force Base, a Randolph spokesman said.

The crew extinguished the fire but it broke out again. The order to abandon the craft was given. Only 11 made it. They were hospitalized overnight for a routine checkup but none appeared injured.

Tar Heel Brings $125,000

Bucyrus Man Outbid In Record Horse Sale

A Bucyrus harness horse owner, Walter Michaels, operator of the Pickwick Farms, lost out in a fast and furious bidding session for Tar Heel, top trotter in the country, yesterday at the Harrisburg, Pa., horse sale, The Associated Press reported today.

He was outbid by Lawrence B. Sheppard, president of the Hanover Shoe Farm horse breeding corporation at Hanover, Pa. The bidding opened at $50,000 and jumped to $105,000 in the first minute.

Thereafter it was between Sheppard and Mr. Michaels who outbid each other by $5,000 on each call until the clincing bid of $125,000 by Mr. Sheppard.

It was the highest price ever paid at a standardbred auction.

To Return to Racing

With the acquisition of Tar Heel and Solicitor, another champion, Hanover Shoe Farm, largest breed table in the nation, plans on returning horses to harmness racing competition next year. The farm discontinued racing in the late 1930s.

Sheppard told a reporter of his plans after paying $125,000 for Tar Heel and $100,000 for Solicitor.

The only other harness horse in history ever to draw $125,000 was Arion, in a private purchase concluded in 1891 by J. Malcolm Forbes of Milton, Mass.

Sheppard's purchases were made in spirited buying which saw the four-day total standardbred sales soar to a record $1,481,525. The previous four-day high was $1,182,000 in 1949. The week-long show ends today.

Will Race Next Year

Tar Heel and Solicitor were purchased for breeding purposes but they'll race next year, Sheppard said.

"We'll be out to break the records too," the new owner declared, but added that the speedy colts will face stiffer competition.

Tar Heel won the $68,000 Little Brown Jug stake at Delaware, O., this year in a photo finish with Solicitor. The winner was caught in two minutes flat—fastest mile ever turned in on a half-mile track by a three-year-old trotter.

In another race both Tar Heel and Solicitor clipped off the same distance on a mile track in 1:57½ in separate time trials to share that world's record for three year olds.

Both horses were consigned to the big annual sale at Harrisburg by the estate of the late W. N. Reynolds, Winston-Salem, N. C. The entire Reynolds dispersal of 36 head went for $534,600.

F. Shrouts, manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau Cooperative, and a member will be elected to serve on the advisory committee of the policyholder for the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies.

Refreshments will be served following the program.

Taft

the public utility rate-fixing laws "the worst in the U.S."

"What pride can Ohioans take in a state government that bonsts about $20,000,000 surplus profit from the liquor traffic, while it cannot find enough money or men to do a respectable regulatory and policing job on permit holders and applicants to prevent public scandal, or even to provide proper protection for the honest men in the industry," he continued.

The younger Taft, a fellow with a world of personality, has a long public background. Some of the highlights:

In 1946 he became the first layman to be made president of the former Federated Council of Churches, now affiliated with the Council of Federated Churches of Christ in America.

He was international president of the YMCA in 1925.

Served Gov't.

During 1949, he served the federal government as director of the USO in charge of health, recreational and welfare activities of the Army and Navy outside of Army and Navy posts

In 1943, he became director of the office of the transportation and communications policy of the State Department.

He is a former Hamilton County prosecutor, helped establish the city manager form of government in Cincinnati, was a campaign advisor to Alf Landon in his campaign for the presidency, and toured the state campaigning for his brother's re-election to the Senate on each occasion.

In 1937, he was one of three federal mediators in the steel strike of that year.

Truman Turns Reins Over To Acheson

Rests at Key West After Challenging Soviet Peace Policy

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 9—(AP)—President Truman today left the next moves up to Secretary of State Acheson—and to the Kremlin—in the diplomatic struggles now centered in the United Nations General Assembly at Paris.

For the next few days, at least, the President plans to concentrate on resting, and, if the sun comes out, swimming and tanning.

Mr. Truman flew here yesterday from Washington after a major speech Wednesday night challenging Russia to accept an American-British-French peace proposal involving a census of all war weapons, including atomic.

Having laid down American policy, the President left it up to Acheson to carry on in Paris where the Secretary of State hoads the United States U.N. delegation.

Not Surprised

Associates said he was not at all surprised by the efforts of deputy foreign minister Vishinsky of Russia to laugh off the proposal for reducing armaments with safeguards which have constant inspection as the principal protection.

Mr. Truman was represented as believeing that the tri-partite proposal can not be laughed off as easily as the Russians would like.

Presidential secretary Joseph Short told reporters he hasn't received any official reaction beyond official statements published in the press.

NPA To Be Tougher On New Building

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 —(AP)—The National Production Authority (NPA) reported today that it had denied 63 per cent of the construction applications for this quarter and may be still tougher in the first quarter of next year.

Price control chiefs were revamping regulations affecting 100,000 manufacturers, and said generally higher price ceilings may be expected on many consumer goods as a result.

And a halt was ordered in the government stockpiling of tin so that all available supplies can go to industry to speed defense production.

The NPA report on building permits was based on applications representing more than one billion dollars worth of commercial and other construction, most of which must be deferred until materials are available.

The agency said it was unable to permit the start of any project not connected with defense directly or indirectly, except a small number of hardship cases in which buildings had been destroyed by fire, flood or other disaster.

The construction controls division now is handling applications for the January-through-March quarter. For that period, the report said, "It is unlikely that approval will be given to any project not at least 20 per cent completed."

As in the present quarter, approval will be given only to projects of a military or defense-supporting nature.

The California sea lion uses its own nose for bait. It floats beneath the water with only the tip of its nose showing. When a sea gull swoops down to catch a "fish", the bird plunges into the sea lion's open mouth.

UNPINNED. An unhappy howl is let out by Elvira Difuntorum, 11-month-old Filipino "pincushion baby," following removal of two pins (held in front of her) she swallowed, resulting in her being flown from Manila, P. I., to Chicago for treatment. A 59-second bronchoscopic operation, removed one from her lung. The other, in her stomach, passed out naturally. Originally she swallowed eight pins, and six passed out naturally before arrival in Chicago.

before her last illness She summoned a neighbor, Miss Helen Franks, at 6 o'clock, who called a physician.

Ill at Ohio Conference

In March this year, Mrs. Padgett became suddenly ill while attending the 52nd Ohio state DAR conference at the Biltmore Hotel in Dayton. She was a patient following that attack at Miami Valley Hospital in Dayton for several weeks. After that illness, she had recovered sufficiently to preside at several district meetings in September.

For many years, Mrs. Padgett was active in women's club work. At one time she was president of the Lakeside Federation of Women's Clubs. In the Ohio Federation, she was program chairman for conventions, she was chairman of Club Institutes, past state treasurer, and held other offices at different times before becoming president of the Ohio federation.

Nationally, Mrs Padgett was past chairman of Club Institutes of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and was director of Ohio on the General Federation at the time she was president of the Ohio Federation.

Organizer of Chapter

In Galion, Mrs. Padgett was one of the organizers of Olentangy Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the first regent. She also belonged to the Sorosis Club She was a member of the Mother Church of Christ, Scientist at Boston, Mass., and she helped to organize a Christian Science society in Galion.

Mrs. Padgett was well known in Marion having visited there on many occasions in connection with her work in the Federation of Women's Clubs and the Daughters of the American Revolution. As regent of the Ohio DAR she was a guest speaker at the January meeting of Captain William Hendricks Chapter.

A native of Bloomington, Ill., Mrs. Padgett was the former Nettie Phillips. Her husband, Earl B. Padgett, was assistant division superintendent of the New York Central Railroad with offices at Springfield, O., at the time of his death about 12 years ago. He was trainmaster at Galion for a number of years prior to the Springfield position.

Mrs. Padgett is survived by a sister-in-law, Mrs. J. S. Barry of South Amboy, N. J., and two nieces and a nephew, children of Mrs. Barry.

Mrs. Padgett was born in August, 1880, to Nevin and Galena White Phillips of Bloomington, Ill. She had lived in Galion about 30 years. Her husband died May 1, 1939.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Snyder Funeral Home in Galion. Mrs. Wanda Engel, first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Galion, will have charge of the services. Burial will be in Riverside Cemetery, Cleveland, Monday morning.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 tonight.

NATO Seen Cutting Down Defense Plan

Move Necessitated By Financial Difficulties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—Administration officials said today the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) most likely will be called on to scale down its western European defense plan along lines recommended here this week by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Because of the financial difficulties of Britain and other allies, these officials said, it is almost certain that a 12-nation "wise men" group will propose the downward revision during the NATO council meeting opening Nov. 24 at Rome.

The committee headed by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman is due to submit its interim report at this session. Named at the Ottawa meeting in September, and there given the "wise men" designation, it is making a country by country survey of the ability of the NATO allies to bear the arms burden imposed by the 1950 "middle term" master plan.

This calls for a defense force of more than 90 divisions by mid-1954, which with air and naval backing was deemed sufficient by military planners to cope with a full scale invasion of western Europe. The prospective downward revision means on its face fewer divisions by the target date, but, under General Eisenhower's recommendations, a force ready for action in the meantime.

In the light of inflationary troubles of France, Italy, and neighbor nations, and Prime Minister Winston Churchill's warning that Britain faces the threat of national bankruptcy, American authorities are convinced a realistic shakedown is inescapable. Involved in this is the proposal pressed by Eisenhower for a speedup of arms deliveries aimed at assuring an integrated fighting force-in-being of up to 30 divisions some time next year.

Small Nations In U.N. Plead For Security

PARIS, Nov. 9—(AP)— Small nations pleaded for greater collective security against the possibility of another Korea today in speeches before the United Nations Assembly. Their pleas followed discouraging new tough talk by the United States and Russia.

As they spoke, U. S. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup, in a special news conference, challenged the Soviet Union to start disarmament talks in the U. N. now—not to wait until some time before June 1, 1952, as the Russians proposed yesterday. Jessup also accused the Russians of trying to by-pass the U. N. in asking a world-wide arms conference.

Russia's proposal was in answer to a U. S. plan — also put before the U. N. General Assembly yesterday — for a census of armaments and progressive reduction of both conventional and atomic weapons, Jessup said the U. S and her British and French allies would push for quick U. N. action on their proposal.

Any hope that the small nations had entertained that a lessening in East-West tensions might come about in this session was shattered yesterday by the hard-hitting policy speeches of Russia's Andrei Vishinsky and U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Both said they wanted peace. But they were worlds apart in their approach to the problem.

Various committee chairmen arranging the affair have included Miss Wolfel, chairman, and Chris Lagos, publicity, William Marks, parade, R. E. Copeland, bands, Dr. Gerald Strauss, floats, John Dean transportation, and Don Harraman, equipment.

The morning service at the courthouse will begin promptly at 11 o'clock, with Ronald McElhaney of LaRue, commander of the County Legion Council, in charge. Seek Approval For Caramel Corn Factory

Wyandot Popcorn Co. Asks Change In N. Main St. Zone

The city planning commission yesterday considered an application by W. Hoover Brown, president of the Wyandot Popcorn Co., for the re-zoning of a property at 708 N. Main St., from residential to commercial use.

The company hopes to convert the present residential building to an office and build a small factory for the manufacture of caramel corn and popcorn balls.

The board agreed to withhold final approval of the application until City Council considers an ordinance changing all the property abutting N. Main St. from Klerx St to the city limits from residential to commercial use. The Wyandot Popcorn Co. property is in this area.

The board reported the area is predominantly residential but is heavily spotted with commercial property.

The ordinance is to be brought in at Council's meeting Monday.

$10,000 Found In Abandoned Auto

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9 (AP) - Lose some money? Cleveland police today were looking for the owner of $10,000 found in a 1936 Chevrolet coupe abandoned on the East Side.

The money, in $5, $10 and $20 bills, was lying on the front seat, neatly wrapped in brown paper. Police could not immediately trace ownership of the car, and its sole license plate was reported missing two months ago by a Morrow County youth.

The trumpeter swan, believed to be the heaviest North American bird, usually weighs around 30 pounds.

Still Object To Screening Rule At Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9—(AP)—The Ohio State chapter of the American Association of University Professors still is champing at the university's speaker screening rule.

The chapter yesterday adopted a resolution saying President Howard L. Bevis' "interpretation"—which, in effect, partially relaxed the rule—does "not meet fundamental objections" of the faculty.

Bevis Wednesday issued an interpretive which said some campus organizations and groups can present a speaker and take full responsibility for his or her selection—without formal presidential approval. Also under the new interpretation, a faculty member can select a speaker for a classroom talk without prior approval.

In a letter to the president, the chapter said in part:

"We earnestly hope the present conferences between the board of trustees and the faculty council committee will quickly result in a return to the faculty of the complete academic freedom and responsibility which have been traditional on this campus for many years."

The trustees of the university and the seven-man faculty committee has scheduled a meeting for Nov. 16 at which time further discussion is planned on the speaker rule.

If anyone wants to buy a pup with a police record they can purchase this sheepish-looking terrier lured from beneath the floor of a suburban Detroit, Mich., police station by William Turner. The pesky pooch had burrowed there and defied best efforts to extract him for 30 hours. Now the pup is safely esconced in Macomb County dog pound.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(UP)—Stocks advanced fractions to more than a point on moderate trading today.

Oils and rails featured the rise which was a continuation of one in progress in the previous session. The upturn, considered largely technical, came despite a selloff on week end realizing in London.

Opening blocks ranged to 3,000 shares in General Motors and American Airlines. The former held steady while American moved higher in a generally better market for airline issues.

In the oil section, Cities Service rose 1¼ to 109¾ on the first sale. Gains also were noted in Kerr County Land, Texas Co., and Standard Oil (N. J.). Chemicals advanced with American Cyanamid and Du Pont up nearly a point each. Bethlehem and Chrysler registered small net gains. Illinois Central, up nearly a point, featured the rails.

push and a kick in a restaurant."

Phillips, an insurance salesman, is charged with beating and strangling the 32-year-old Mrs. Alter in her home on April 25.

"Could a one-handed man hold a rather vigorous women for five minutes, and suffocate her?" asked Herbert. Phillips lost his right forearm in a childhood accident.

But assistant prosecutor Henry L. Holden said the evidence had shown "George Phillips was at the home of Ruth Alter on April 25, and in a quarrel with her kicked her and brutally murdered her."

Holden reviewed the evidence against Phillips. Mrs. Lucille Druggan has testified she had found Phillips' calling card in Mrs. Alter's home the day of the murder.

Herbert said he thought Mrs. Druggan was "mistaken" about the calling card.

"Defense witnesses saw no card there," he said. "It is a necessary link. You must decide who was right."

Assistant defense attorney James C. Britt recalled the testimony of Elmer F. Gatts. Gatts had said he drove his blue car to the Alter home twice on April 25, but had found nobody home. Britt said prosecution witnesses saw Gatts' car—not Phillips'.

Judge Myron B. Gressaman said the case would be given to the jury after completion of the final arguments.

members. In addition, there is a pastor's study, choir robing room, nursery, and balcony.

Gothic style of the architecture features open beam ceiling with cloistered side aisles and divided chancel. Golden oak finish is used for the pews and pulpit furniture, with the ceiling timbers in a darker shade. Light fixtures are 14 huge lanterns in Swedish iron.

Windows Depict Life of Christ

Highlighting the beauty of the sanctuary is the series of stained glass windows, with symbols in reds and blues portraying a complete cycle of the life of Christ on earth. Central window, above the chancel, features a life-size figure of Christ with outstretched hands. The remaining windows, 20 in all, line either side wall. The floor is of mastic tile laid on concrete.

Stairs leading from the first floor to the basement are of steel and concrete. The basement is finished in glazed tile. A heating system consists of double unit gas furnaces with fans and ducts leading to every part of the building.

Main entrance is the tower entrance at the rear. The roof is of smoked red tile underlaid with double insulation. It weighs more than 40 tons and is supported by 12 steel "I" beams enclosed by columns of the Indiana limestone which form the cloister arches. Supporting beams are exposed in the "scissors" construction to give effect of added height.

Designer is John H. Moore, Marion architect, and John D. Yant of Lima was in charge of construction.

Looking to the completion of the new church building to provide a proper setting for the spiritual welfare of future generations of worshipers as well as providing a fitting monument to the faithful ones of the past, the cornerstone was laid Oct. 30, 1949.

Church Rich in History

History of the church goes back to years which preceded the actual founding of the congregation, the pioneer days of the territory, and the early days of the city of Marion.

First trace in this area of the denomination, then the Church of the United Brethren in Christ, was in 1822, when a member of the Frederick, Md., church settled in Lower (Little) Sandusky. Jacob Baulus was first minister to the white settlers along the Sandusky River. In 1833, General Conference of the denomination authorized organization of the Sandusky Conference. Before that, the area composing the Sandusky Conference was a part of the Muskingum Conference, a territory extending from Mt. Pleasant, Pa., to Lower Sandusky. First session of the new conference was in 1834. The next year, the conference met in Crawford County in April with 25 members and five circuits represented. With exception of a period from 1877 to 1901, when conference boundaries were twice reset, the local church has remained within Sandusky Conference which is now merged, since union with the Evangelical denomination, in the Ohio Sandusky Conference.

Organized in 1837

First Church in Marion was organized in 1837 and met at the home of John Gruber, two miles east of town where the Marion County Home now stands. Prominent in the organization process were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ulsh, George Miller, the Rev. Jacob Berger and Mr. Gruber. In 1848, a small building was rented on North East (State) St. in Marion. This place is now used as a house of worship by the Seventh Day Adventist congregation. Later, the United Brethren members worshiped in the home of the Rev. Mr. Berger on S. Prospect St. beside the present School Administration Building.

In 1850, the group accepted a proposal of Eber Baker, founder of Marion, that the denomination first to erect and occupy a church building on Lot 120 should have and hold the same as property of the denomination. No deed was delivered to the church at that time, but the title was cleared May 4, 1949, through efforts of Hugh Kirkwood of Columbus, then a Marion resident and member of First Church.

Record Of Early Buildings

A first building, frame, measuring 52 x 38 ft., was started in the spring of 1850. It was dedicated that August. In November, 1865, the church trustees purchased for $300 Lot 119 from Mr. and Mrs. John Hefner with money left by the will of Abram Young. A parsonage was built there at a cost of $900. In 1892, this property was sold for $2,000, and in 1912, it was bought again by the church for $5,000. At that time, the house which stood there was moved to the rear of the lot to become the present Community House. The house constructed as a parsonage in 1892, next to the church on the south, was moved to the corner of the alley after remodeling and is the present parsonage.

In 1902, the congregation felt it necessary to expand facilities under leadership of the Rev. A. Snider. The old frame building was moved to the rear of the church lot to become a Sunday School unit, with basement and five class rooms. A new auditorium was built at the front facing Prospect St. The entire building was faced with red brick for $7,-200, and served the congregation until its demolition to make room for the new building.

Pastors who followed Rev. Berger, who served until 1851, include Rev. P. Flack who served until 1852; Rev. J. Davis, 1854; Rev. S. Lindsay, 1855; Rev. C. Briggs, 1857; Rev. D. W. Day, 1858; Rev. A. Trespassing Group In Union County Ready For Action

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE — The 15-year-old Union County Trespassing Control Association is prepared to again go into action during the coming hunting season to prevent damage to fences and livestock by hunters.

The association, headed by Stanley Bellville of Leesburg township, will have authorized agents patrol farms of members to see that "no hunting" signs are respected by those who have no written permission to roam those fields.

Union county farmers annually grant permission to friends to hunt on their land, but post signs that warn other hunters they risk prosecution for trespassing if found on posted farms.

Sees Grange, Baugh as Top Attractions

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(AP)—Dick McCann, the Washington Redskins' general manager and tub-thumper, argues that only two football players ever drew crowds by themselves—Red Grange and Sammy Baugh . . . Dick can quote figures to show how attendance falls off at Redskin games when Sammy isn't playing and he claims in all other games the fans turn out to see the team as a whole, including the individual star . . . In Texas they'd probably add Doak Walker to the list, but that's about as far as you can go . . . After his recent visit here, Notre Dame Athletic Director Moose Krause left more than a hint that the Irish will put up a heck of a battle if the NCAA tries to control football television after this season . . Guys on the baseball beat are mentioning Johnny Mize as a possible manager of the Yanks' Binghamton, N. Y, farm next summer Bill Skiff, Bingo's 1951 manager, is slated to return to scouting. . . Horton Nesrsta, Rice safety man, is the smallest Southwest Conference football regular Listed at 147 pounds he actually weighed 139 after one tough game this season.

Irving (Soup) Campbell, veteran New Hampshire sports writer, was covering a game in which his son, Bernard, played for the New Hampshire U. freshmen against Boston U. . . . When the regular P A. announcer failed to show up, Campbell took over the microphone . . . He gave a fine factual report until late in the game when, with the score tied, B U completed a pass in the territory patrolled by his son. . Then, in tones that forecast a trip to the woodshed when sonny reached home, "Soup" roared: "The player who failed to cover that pass was Campbell"

Matchmaker Larry Atkins would like to pit Roland Lastarza against Harry Matthews in the feature fight of the Cleveland Christmas Fund card but so far hasn't had an okay from Jack Hurley, Matthews' manager. . . . South Carolina's Steve Wadiak already has broken Charlie Justice's four-year Southern Conference rushing record with a total of 2,647 yards He has three games to go. . . . After busting two pairs of specs in one exhibition game at Kokomo, Ind, recently, George Mikan, the big Minneapolis basketballer, is thinking seriously of trying contact lenses again But we always heard basketball was a "no contact game Princeton N. J, High School has a 13-game football winning streak The copy cats! . . . After the Yanks', Bob Celeri threw 42 passes last Sunday, a Giant defensive lineman complained: "When they put that guy back five yards and he fades ten more, chasing him is just like taking 42 wind sprints."

Hayes Disappointed In Squad's Final Warmup Session

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9—(AP)—Coach Woody Hayes takes his Ohio State Buckeyes to Pittsburgh today for a Saturday encounter with the winless Pittsburgh Panthers.

The Buckeyes are figured as two touchdown favorites But they've been confounding the experts all year.

Hayes looked worried yesterday after the up-and-down Buckeyes' stumbled through a disappointing practice session And only the day before Hayes said he thought the team looked better than it had all year.

That's the way it's been from Saturday to Saturday They were ranked third in the nation in preseason guessing Now they've got a 3-2-1 record and the experts are stroking their whiskers.

Hayes hopes the letdown yesterday was temporary. He figures on using the same lineup that started in last week's 3-0 win over Northwestern Tony Curcillo, Doug Goodsell, Vic Janowicz and Jack Wagner will be in the backfield

Bob Grimes, a second string end from Middletown, has an injured ankle and may not get into the game He got kicked in Wednesday's practice but didn't notice the pain until yesterday.

Walt Klevay, Goodsell's substitute at right half, saw a lot of action in yesterday's drill, and Hayes may use him tomorrow.

Hayes concentrated on pass plays yesterday, but they didn't click at all With showers forecast for Saturday he may have to rely on a running attack

Eagles Top Pass Defenders

Otto Graham Meets Stiff Defensive Test

CLEVELAND, Nov 9—(AP)—Otto Graham, whose passing tops National League percentages, tangles with the circuit's top pass defense Sunday when the Cleveland Browns play the Philadelphia Eagles

The quarterback for the Cleveland pro champs has completed 76 of his 124 throws for a 61 3 percentage and 1,069 yards in six games while leading the Browns to the top of the loop's American Division

The Eagles' defense, meanwhile, was knocking down 60 per cent of the passes thrown by Philadelphia's opponents

The Eagles have had less opportunity to watch Graham's throwing technique than any other club Cleveland and Philadelphia have not played yet this season and, in one of the two games last year against the Eagles, Graham did not throw a single time

Warren Lahr intercepted an Eagle toss one minute and 18 seconds after the game started and raced 30 yards for a Brown touchdown Since the field was soggy and the weather cold, the Browns decided to protect that lead and went the entire 60 minutes without throwing once

That was the only time in Coach Paul Brown's history that one of clubs failed to pass

Cleveland won, 13-7, Lou Groza kicking two field goals

Cleveland beat the Eagles, 35-10, in the first game of last season Philadelphia—then the defending champs—was almost too surprised to figure what was happening as the Browns celebrated their entry into the league Graham pitched four touchdown passes that outing.

Unless the Eagles beat the Browns this time, they are just about out of the race.

So far, the Eagles have trimmed the Chicago Cards, 71-14, San Francisco, 21-14, and Pittsburgh, 34-13 They lost to Green Bay, 37-24, to the New York Giants, 28-24, and to Washington, 24-23

Leading the Eagle attack is Bob Walston, a rookie end from Columbus. Walston, who played in college for Georgia, tops the league in scoring with 59 points, made on five touchdowns, 17 conversions and four field goals

The five passes he snagged for touchdowns were thrown by Adrian Burk, who has completed 53 of 88 throws for 879 yards and a 45 3 average

Cleveland needs a victory to stay ahead of the New York Giants in the race for the division title and a place in the championship game The Browns have beaten Los Angeles, 38-23, Washington, 45-0, Pittsburgh, 17-0, the Giants, 14-13, and the Chicago Cards, 34-17 They lost to San Francisco, 24-10.

The Giants have won four, tied one and lost one

Steve Van Buren, veteran halfback, will get a chance to improve his rushing average against the Browns Van Buren has carried the ball more times and gained more yards than any other player in the circuit The Champion Browns are the only club he never gained against. He only worked in one of last year's games and then lost two yards in 10 attempts

The Browns are the only club the Eagles have never beaten.

ELECTED CAGE CAPTAIN

CINCINNATI, Nov 9—(AP)—Gene Smith Xavier University's lanky center from Middletown, has been elected captain of the 1952 basketball squad by his teammates Smith, who graduated from Hamilton Catholic High School, set an all-time Musketeer scoring record last season when he tallied 361 points He also holds the single game mark with 26 points.

Parilli Tops Grid Nominees

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 —(AP)—Babe Parilli, Kentucky's wizard "T" style quarterback, heads this week's 19 nominations to the Associated Press All-America squad, bringing the grand total to 145.

Parilli's work earlier this season was obscured by his team' defeats, but last Saturday he came into his own with three touchdown passes as Miami of Florida went down to defeat, 33 to 0. In all he gained 103 yards on passes.

Here are the other 18 nominations for last Saturday:

Offensive

Mitch Price, Columbia quarterback; Dick Heatly, Oklahoma halfback; Billy Hair, Clemson halfback, Allan Stanton, Arizona quarterback, John Coatta, Wisconsin, quarterback; Ollie Matson, San Francisco University fullback; Ray Oliverson, Brigham Young halfback; Alton Taylor, Texas Christian guard; Howard Waugh, Tulsa fullback.

Defensive

Bob Spears, Yale fullback and linebacker; John Konek, Kansas halfback; Ed Meadows, Duke guard, Ralph Carrigan, Alabama linebacker, Herb Neathery, Illinois left half, Dick Lemon, California defensive back; Tom Dubilski, Utah halfback, Ted Vaught, Texas Christian end; George Wooden, Oklahoma A. and M end.

Thorpe Undergoes Hospital Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Nov 9—(AP)—Jim Thorpe, 63-year-old Indian athlete termed America's greatest of the last 50 years, undergoes a delicate operation today for what a hospital spokesman described as a form of skin cancer.

Thorpe has been appearing at a Philadelphia cafe heading an all-Indian song and dance troupe. He entered Lankenau Hospital several days ago when a sore on his lower lip failed to respond to ordinary treatment.

Middlecoff Takes One-Stroke Lead

PINEHURST, N C, Nov 9—(AP)—Despite a costly lapse that cost him a stroke which might loom large by payoff time Sunday, Cary Middlecoff, the golfing dentist from Memphis, Tenn, was top man by one stroke going into today's third round of the North and South Golf Tournament

Middlecoff, the 1949 U S Open champion, came up with his second one-under par 71 yesterday for a 142 and a stroke edge over three rivals—Dick Chapman the British Amateur champion from Pinehurst, Jimmy Adams, Scotch member of the British Ryder Cup Team, and Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C, professional

Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va, slugger, who captained the U.S. Ryder Cup team in its rout of the British here earlier this week and was favored to win his third North and South in a row, withdrew after skying to 78, the same score posted by Julius Boros, of Southern Pines, N C, the first day leader with 68 Neither could buy a birdie.

Big Games Tomorrow Decide Issues

NEW YORK, Nov 9—(AP)—Major bowl scouts will have their binoculars trained on half a dozen stadia tomorrow but they'll painstakingly avoid one of the big football battles of the day.

That's the clash at East Lansing, Mich, between unbeaten, untied Michigan State, fifth ranked nationally, and once-defeated Notre Dame, bounding back toward its former heights.

Neither is bowl fodder. As a member of the Big Ten not yet able to partake of the Western Conference's Rose Bowl gravy, Michigan State is ineligible The Fighting Irish simply shun post-season activity.

But elsewhere you'll find the pieces gradually falling into place in the giant jig-saw puzzle that makes up the Jan 1 bowl program.

Feature Attraction

Feature games in this respect are at Los Angeles, where all-winning Stanford tackles once-defeated Southern California for the almost certain Rose Bowl plum, and at Austin, Tex, where Texas and Baylor vie to keep their post-season aspirations alive.

As of this moment, the major bowl games stack up like this:

Rose Bowl—Illinois (6-0) vs. Stanford (7-0) or Southern California (7-1).

Sugar Bowl—Maryland (6-0) vs Tennessee (6-0)

Cotton Bowl—Texas Christian (6-2) or Texas (6-1) vs. Tennessee or Georgia Tech (6-0-1).

Orange Bowl—Georgia Tech vs one of the top southwest teams (TCU, Baylor or Texas.

A crowd of 90,000 is expected to turn out at Los Angeles to witness the battle of the western titans. If Stanford prevails, it must yet take the measure of Oregon State and California for a perfect league mark. Southern Cal, whose only FINIS. In the final week of their grid prognostications, The Star football dopesters pick both Harding and St. Mary to lose in games with highly-favored opponents.

Harding takes on one of the top elevens in the state, in Sandusky while St. Mary faces an up-and-coming Elm Valley team, unbeaten in eight games and winners of the Middle Buckeye League title.

Going into the final round the averages read: McClain, .771; Bill Stanbro, .740; Short, .708; Diem, .688.

UPSETS POSSIBLE. Conceivably both the Prexies and Fighting Irish could pull upsets. Sandusky is cocky with its 7-1 record and is ripe to be beaten. Elm Valley was tied by Fredericktown 6-6, and beat Mt. Gilead by a smaller score than the Irish.

Both local schools will likely take to the air with Tom McClain unlimbering his strong left arm for Harding and steady Jim Kilbury tossing for St. Mary from his T-formation quarterback slot.

blot is a 27-17 defeat handed its third stringers by Camp Pendleton, has UCLA and Notre Dame remaining.

Illinois, ranked second behind Tennessee nationally, can wrap up the other Rose Bowl berth by conquering Iowa this week and then subduing Ohio State and Northwestern. That's a considerable order but Illinois has proved itself a considerable football team.

The southwest, which provides the host team in the Cotton Bowl, is in its usual stew, with no team dominant. TCU leads the league with a perfect record and after a rest this week take on Texas, Rice and SMU in that order.

That puts a lot of significance on the game tomorrow between Texas and Baylor at Austin. The Longhorns, beaten only by Arkansas, are a slight favorite over the Baylor Bears, tied by Texas A. & M. and beaten last week by Texas Christian.

Easy Week

The other bowl aspirants have a fairly easy week of it. Top-ranked Tennessee is a strong choice over Washington & Lee at Knoxville and Maryland, No. 3, is favored to add to the woes of winless, downtrodden Navy at Baltimore.

Georgia Tech, tied by Duke last week, entertains Virginia Military Institute, no pushover but figured no match for the fast, offensive-minded Engineers.

Princeton and its tailback wizard, Dick Kazmaier, are expected to have a breeze at Harvard and extend football's longest current winning streak to 20 games. The Tigers are fourth ranked nationally.

Wisconsin, still in the running for Western Conference and Rose Bowl honors in case Illinois should stub a toe, risks its No. 9 national ranking against Pennsylvania in one of the top intersectional frays.

Union Merger Seen Remote

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(AP)—Merger of the CIO and AFL appeared but a remote possibility today as the national CIO convention neared its close.

The final piece of business for the CIO delegates was adoption of a resolution backing up president Philip Murray on this point.

Murray, unopposed for re-election to a 12th year as CIO president today, has declared the CIO against immediate merger with the AFL but in favor of co-operation between the two big labor groups.

After the AFL made overtures for amalgamation, there were rumors a week ago that the CIO and AFL might in some way overcome the differences which split them 17 years ago.

Talks about a merger broke off in August, 1950.

In the meantime, the AFL pointed out, there have been no direct talks about merger. AFL leaders blamed Murray, who has been ill a large part of the past 12 months.

Production Up Despite Loss Of Farm Hands

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—The heavy migration away from farms that was spurred by World War II had been brought to a virtual halt in the late '40's, when along came Korea.

Now farm workers are again rushing to defense industries and the armed forces.

Farm employment this year will average 400,000 fewer than last. Yet production of crops and livestock products combined will be the largest in the nation's history.

The ability of agriculture to take losses in its work force and still come up with larger and larger harvests provides evidence of ever-increasing efficiency.

Farmers are working longer hours and are using much more mechanical equipment.

Virtually all of this year's decrease in farm workers, the department reports, has been among male workers. Consequently women make up a larger proportion of the farm labor force than a year ago. The percentage of women this year is estimated at 18 compared with 16 last year. During the war the percentage of women climbed to 23.

The number of military-age males employed in agriculture decreased by 275,000 from July 1950 to July 1951. More than half were said to have entered the armed forces, the remainder taking city jobs.

There apparently is room for a further decline in the farm labor force without seriously affecting production.

900 See "Darkness at Noon"

First Play in Drama Festival Presented

By ANGELYN PALERMO

Herbert Voland, cast as Rubashov, in "Darkness at Noon," presented last night at the Palace Theater, gave an unforgettable performance in the leading role of a Russian prisoner whose human diginity is destroyed with the rise of communism. An audience of approximately 900 were present for the play, which was the first of three to be presented in the Civic Drama Festival sponsored by the Marion Exchange Club.

The cast was composed of professional actors and actresses from New York who are presenting the play in a series of performances throughout the nation.

"Voice of the Turtle" will be presented Dec. 20, and "Heaven Can Wait" will appear Feb. 28, both at the Palace Theater. Proceeds from the three plays will be given to the Marion County Juvenile Court for the benefit of wards of the court.

Set in Russian Prison

The entire play is set in a Russian prison during the harsh days of March, 1937. In flights of his memory, Rubashov, a general in the revlutionary army who has just been taken prisoner, visualizes episodes that have occurred in the past.

These events recalled by Rubashov are enacted on the left side of the stage and move freely back and forth between the actual events taking place in the material world of the prison.

The prisoner remembers several meetings with his secretary Luba Loshenko, played by Elizabeth Lawrence. Miss Lawrence's performance as a sensitive young woman in love with the prisoner adds warmth to the production.

A fleeting moment in an art museum in Leipsig, Germany, in 1933 where the general makes further plans for the revolution with Comrade Richard is visualized. Peter Thompson, young man born in Vienna, Austria, who came to America as a youngster, is cast as Comrade Richard and also as a prisoner in a cell near Rubashov.

Red Ruthlessness Shown

The ruthlessness of the power of communism is depicted through events taking place in the prison, such as the torturing of prisoners and the constant interrogation of Rubashov until he is sentenced to execution for crimes he did not commit.

Allan Gruener is cast as Gletkin, the despicable prison officer, who schemes for the false confession of the general. Richard Kuss plays the part of a guard who cooperates with Gletkin in his plans for the removal of Rubashov. Ivanhoff, old friend of the general now in charge of the prison, is portrayed by Loyal T. Lucas, whose stage history goes back to the days of silent movies.

Included in the cast of eight are Norman Beim, who adds a bit of humor to the play, enacting the part of prisoner No. 402 who has 80 more years to serve in prison. John Splevin is cast as a storm trooper, and Richard Kuss plays a second role in the play, that of Bogrov, old comrade of Rubashov whose torture is included in Gletkin's plan for Rubashov's speedy confession and conviction.

The Drama Critics Award play was presented by the Civic Drama Guild of New York. "Darkness at Noon" was written by Sidney Kingsley based on a novel by Arthur Koester.

Claims Shot Without Cause

EUSTIS, Fla., Nov. 9—(AP)—Sheriff William McCall and a deputy were accused by Walter Irvin of shooting him and killing a fellow prisoner without cause.

Irvin said Thursday night Deputy James L. Yates shot him while he lay wounded on the ground after McCall fired two bullets into him.

He related Yates shot him in an effort to make sure he was dead.

Irvin is a defendant in a rape case. Samuel Shepherd, also charged in the same case, was killed Tuesday night while he and Irvin were being returned from the state prison at Raiford.

McCall said he shot the two Negroes when they "jumped" him and tried to escape when he stopped to inspect a faulty tire. Yates said he had no comment.

The two Negroes were being taken to Tavaros for a hearing in connection with a re-trial on charges they raped a farm wife in July, 1949.

They were convicted in September of that year and sentenced to death, but the conviction was reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court and a re-trial ordered.

Irvin gave his version of the shooting in a sworn statement to J. J. Elliott, special investigator for Gov. Fuller Warren.

He denied he and Shepherd tried to escape and also denied they struck the sheriff.

Woman Details Slaying Of Newark Lover

Joanne Thomas Tells Murder Trial Jury Of Illegal Operations

NEWARK, O., Nov. 9—(AP)—Joanne Thomas, 25, testified yesterday she wasn't helself when she shot and killed her lover, Frank Rizzo, 30, because two abortions had weakened her.

At her trial on a charge of first-degree murder she said she became pregnant twice by Rizzo, and both times he took her to Dr. Evan C. Worhley of Newark and paid for abortions.

At first she refused to name the doctor.

"I'm afraid I'd incriminate myself," she said.

"You've already incrimiated yourself by admitting having abortions," said prosecutor Forrest B. Ashcraft. "Who was the doctor?"

Names Doctor

Judge Charles B. Holtsberry ordered her to answer.

Ashcraft told a newsman last night, "I have no comment to make about what I intend to do about the doctor, because I want to investigate further." He said Dr. Worhley is practicing in Newark now "as far as I know."

The "Frankie and Johnny" story behind the trial came out under questioning by defense attorney J. Dale McNamar.

Miss Thomas told of her love for Rizzo since they met in 1946, and the events that led her to shooting him four times last Sept. 15.

Goes to Mansfield

She said after the first abortion, in early 1948, she left Newark and got a job in Mansfield.

"I thought I could start over, because people wouldn't know me. Even though I still loved Frank I thought I could start a new life," she added.

But Frank visited her in Mansfield, and after three months she went back to Newark.

"Frank told me things would work out regarding marriage, if I'd just wait. We never discussed it after he told me that," she said.

"Frank was different from the other boys I met," she said. "I never had sexual relations with anybody else."

She said she "lost a lot of blood and wasn't well" after the second abortion in May of this year. She said she had no more sexual relations.

(Her mother, Mrs. Louise Brehm, had testified previously, "I don't know how Joanne lived, she lost so much blood.")

Frank continued seeing her last summer over her mother's objections, Joanne said.

On Wednesday, Sept. 12, she had a date for dinner and a show with Frank. He didn't show up.

"I went to Frank's garage (in an alley near his home) and waited until 8 a.m.," he testified.

Then she went home, she said, and called a motel in Columbus where she and Frank had stayed several times. He was there. She went to the motel and found he was with Mrs. Edna Thresher, 35.

Unusual Number Of Meteorites Has Experts Puzzled

ALBUQUERQUE, Nov. 9—(AP)—An unusual number of unusual meteorites flashing through southwestern skies these autumn nights has the experts puzzled.

In the past 11 days, seven fireballs of exceptional size—and with some other exceptional aspects—have zoomed through the skies over a seven-state area. The Institute of Meteoritics at New Mexico University said that frequency has never been equalled in history.

"In fact," said Dr. Lincoln La Paz, head of the institute, "there has never been a rate of meteorite fall in history that has been one-fifth as high as the present fall.

"If that rate should continue, I would suspect the phenomenon is not natural.

The fireballs reported by observers in Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Utah and Nevada don't behave like ordinary meteorites at all, Dr. La Paz said.

They travel in straight lines when they should follow a curved course. Frequently they are silent although meteorites of that size should make a definite noise. They have a greenish color he said has not been reported outside the Southwest.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Faith in our currency has been reaffirmed by the CIO high command . . . Although the dollar isn't worth much, the boys have agreed to take as many more of them as they can get.

The administration warned that bigger slices of the nation's economic pie would lead to inflation indigestion but the CIO cafeteria doesn't have a "no more pie" sign in stock.

And as anyone knows the cafeteria that does the biggest business is the one with "plenty of fresh pie" sign in the window.

And as everyone also knows there is nothing more unexciting than a promise to keep wages at status quo.

Given a choice between a candidate for union leadership who says "We will keep wages at their present level so as not to upset the nation's economy" and one who says "Boys this is only the beginning . . . We're shooting for the real dough!" Who do you think the dues payers would elect?

Sewage Fund Problem Set For Councilmen

Special Session Called To Consider Operating Revenue

City Council will meet with Auditor Elmer Shaw and Floyd G. Browne, consulting engineer, next week at City Hall to plan the next step in construction of a new sewage disposal plant.

$600,000 bond issue was voted Tuesday by Marion residents to provide money for building the plant but a three-fourths mill levy planned to provide operating expenses was turned down.

Failure of this levy presents Council the problem of how to go about operating the new plant. Councilman-at-large Newton D. Cunningham said today he was puzzled by the outcome of the election.

"I am wondering how the taxpayers in the city of Marion expect to operate a three-quarter million dollar disposal plant on $30,000 a year," Mr. Cunningham said. "That amount wasn't enough to operate the present broken-down plant."

More Revenue Essential

Mr. Cunningham explained the operating levy had been planned to work in conjunction with the bond issue.

"It was an absolute must that the tax levy be passed along with the bonds to provide the necessary operating funds," he said.

The council spokesman indicated a possible sewer service charge might be necessitated by lack of operating funds. He said the city did not have the funds available in the general fund for expenses of the new plant and revenue would have to be obtained from other sources.

Subject for Meeting

The special meeting next week has been set to allow council members and the city auditor to discuss possible methods of obtaining the funds for operations. Mr. Cunningham said although the voters got what they wanted it might cost them more in the long run than the mortgage revenue plan originally approved by council. Under that plan, mortgage revenue bonds would have been issued and a sewer service charge would have been assessed.

Mr. Cunningham said he thought certain persons in the city had taken it upon themselves to advise Marionites on how to vote and advised against the mortgage revenue plan.

"Those same people, I don't believe, would have done that, had they received the same information available to City Council," Mr. Cunningham said.

Until 1898, Princeton University was called officially the College of New Jersey.

Farmers Get More For Crops in Ohio

Income in 1st 8 Months of Year Up 19 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—Ohio farmers received about 19 per cent more for their crops and other products during the first eight months this year than they did in the corresponding period a year ago.

During the last two months of this period—July and August—Ohio farmers were plagued by a serious drought that cut sharply into the corn crop, injured late crops like potatoes and soy beans, and dried up pasture land.

An Agricultural Department farm income report shows that cash receipts from farm marketings in Ohio in the January-through-August period this year totalled $684,275,000, as compared with $572,587,000 in that eight-month span of 1950.

A big increase was scored in sales of livestock and their products. The 1951 total was $515,617,000—$116,559,000 more than the 1950 figure.

Agriculture Department officials said some of this increase might be accounted for by forced selling of livestock by farmers whose pasture land was being parched by the drought.

This increase in income from sale of livestock and livestock products was somewhat offset by a drop in cash receipts from crops during the eight-month period.

The 1951 total stood at $188,658,000—a drop of $4,871,000 from the year before.

Agriculture experts said this might be traced, in part, to a tendency on the part of drought-harried farmers to hold on to their supplies of grains, pending the outcome of the new crops

Then, too, they pointed out, farmers whose pasture land was probably dipped into their grain being dried out by the drought bins to feed their stock.

Vishinsky Is Not Amused

ANDREI VISHINSKY'S jocular treatment of the arms stabilization plan proposed by the United States, Great Britain and France means the Soviet Union's foreign minister is not amused.

In the judgment of others more candid than Mr. Vishinsky can afford to be, this proposal suggests that the United States is learning the ropes in modern diplomacy.

The secret of the Soviet Union's impact on international events, which is out of all proportion to the actual power of Russia, is its shrewd use of propaganda. It has convinced many millions of people who know no better that the Kremlin is working tirelessly for peace while convincing millions who do know better that it is preparing for war.

The arms stabilization proposal calls the bluff of the Communist conspiracy. It says in effect that if the Kremlin really wants peace here is a way to secure it and at the same time relieve Russians and captive populations of some of their arms burden. If the Kremlin spurns the proposal, it confesses falsehood and loses friends. If it accepts the proposal, it loses only enemies. Either way, the rest of the world has something to gain, which is why Vishinsky is the least amused man in Paris.

We Can Stand It

AS IT happens, the government "freeze" on new models of automobiles, in the form of an order tying up the machine-tool industry for war production after Feb. 1, won't have much effect. The automobile industry already had decided to go easy on model changes.

The freeze order also bars new machine tools in industries making various household appliances, and that too is something the customers can bear without too much complaining. With the rare exception of basic alterations, the design-changing which keeps the machine-tool industry humping when business is good has nothing to do with performance.

It is solely for the benefit of sales organizations, which have learned that the line of least sales resistance is to sell something different. It may or may not be better, but if it's different the selling job is easier. Hence, the streamlined refrigerator. Hence, the automobile flossed up with bright work which becomes a maintenance headache. Hence, the washing machine which may look more like a television set than a machine for doing laundry. It's fun, and maybe it's progress, but it is one of the expendables of mass production.

All Nice and Legal

IF CIVIL strife ever breaks over the United States, it will wear a proper cloak of legality. The revolutionists will point to their inalienable rights, and their battalions of lawyers will be prepared with all necessary writs and injunctions.

It would not be surprising if the issue of whether or not the revolutionists should or should not be resisted by constituted authority were appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court for a ruling. And no one would be astonished if the Supreme Court found in favor of the revolutionists on a technical error in the appeal of their victims from the decision of a federal district court.

The reason no one would be astonished is the infinite capacity of some federal judges for tender solicitude where the convenience of revolutionists is at stake. The U.S. Supreme Court has just ruled that U.S. District Court in Los Angeles must reconsider a decision to set bail at $50,000 each in the case of 12 suspected Communists being held in jail.

The court has ruled, in effect, that the nature of the suspicion has nothing to do with the bail; that a person suspected of plotting to overthrow the United States should be treated the same as a person suspected of tipping over a banana wagon.

Amid the Explosions

THE latest series of atomic explosions in New Mexico will have registered on Europeans and Asiatics by this time, perhaps even more strongly than upon Americans.

It is unlikely that the Europeans and Asiatics will be favorably impressed. It is likely they will be so unfavorably impressed, in fact, that high authority in Washington might have cause to wonder whether or not the official publicity given to the latest explosions may not have been a gross blunder in the battle for men's minds.

The United States, deeply preoccupied with its own security, cannot afford to ignore the reluctance of people elsewhere to face the prospect of another great war. The war issue was important in the British election. Observers in Europe say there is an uneasy feeling among the Europeans that the United States may rush into conflict for lack of enough imagination and statesmanship to seek a more constructive way out of its growing deadlock with the Communist conspiracy.

In Europe, particularly, war is not regarded as a solution to any problem. If it is so regarded in Asia, it could be only because so many Asiatics have no awareness of what modern war is.

Russia "On the Spot"

By David Lawrence

Allies Put Kremlin "Peace Talk" To Test

WASHINGTON

RUSSIA is being put "on the spot." The United States, Great Britain, and France have begun in a big way to puncture the "peace" offensives which the Communists for several years now have been carrying on with hardly any effective challenge in the world forum.

If the Communists are in earnest about peace, let them prove it by agreeing to inspection or inventory of their arms and weapons of all kinds—that's the latest proposal which is being carried on the air waves now to the four corners of the earth.

LAWRENCE

But, to be realistic, it is necessary to observe that the chances of any agreement are remote and that the move has propaganda value only. This doesn't mean it is destined to be without effectiveness. For the more the Allies see the importance of just such psychological maneuvers as this, the more they will begin to break down the hold which the Kremlin has on its own people.

The craving of the Russian population is for peace. The memory of 5,000,000 soldiers killed and more than that number of civilians destroyed in the last war makes the peace urge inside Russia so tremendous that the Moscow government has been playing primarily to that sentiment with its pretensions of peace and its charges of warmongering against other nations.

A proposal for reduction of armements such as has just been made is so obviously the kind of offer that will be discussed far and wide that inevitably something of the sincere purpose of the western nations must also penetrate the iron curtain.

THE PLAN HAS been in the making for a long time. It shows the results of careful study and timing. The United Nations assembly was selected as the occasion, and a speech by the President of the United States was determined upon as the means of amplifying the formal language of the official announcement at Paris.

Mr. Truman's speech differs from all other proposals for reducing armament heretofore made by any nation in an international conference in that it asks first only for an inventory to see what everybody has. The United States indicates it is so far along in its armament program that it is willing to reveal its actual strength. But this will not be done until there is agreement by Russia to permit inspectors from other countries to make an on-the-spot count of what the Russians have.

Starting with conventional arms and weapons, the plan goes on to what are termed "more sensitive areas" — namely, the manufacture of atomic bombs. Apparently the United States is willing to reveal the size and number of its atomic bombs. But this last step would not be reached if there were a breach of faith on the other steps leading up to inspection of atomic bombs.

THE PURPOSE, of course, is to make the plan "foolproof," as the President phrases it. He points out that each country, moreover, would have to ratify the agreement in advance, in accord with "their own constitutional prastices." This means that the treaty would have to be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the United States Senate.

The President concedes that the Russians have been breaking their word and violating agreements, but he says the peaceful nations have a responsibility, nevertheless, to keep on making offers of plans to reduce armament so as to remove the threat of war.

The most important phase of the tripartite program is that it strikes hard at the Communist propaganda which has been charging that the West is building up its armament solely for war and disregards disarmament proposals. Now the West issues a challenge and offers to reduce armament if Russia will really agree on the first step—to make an accounting or audit of existing arms.

The program will be a powerful argument no matter what the Russians may say about it. The points in the President's speech will be used over and over again by western spokesmen and the "Voice of America" to challenge the Communists in every part of the world where they shout for peace while making war or carrying on sabotage. The western countries are at last waking up to the possibilities of counter-propaganda on a broad scale.

Handyman Racket

By TRUMAN TWILL

HERE is a magazine blurb advising male householders to buy a few simple tools and learn to be their own handymen. Outside help is hard to find, says the blurb, and hard to pay for when found, so papa should be encouraged to tackle those little chores which always need to be done around the house.

Look awake, papa.

A handyman's work is never done. If you begin, there is no end. They will have you building chimneys before the end of your first year. If you show any aptitude at fixing drains, they will be trying to talk you into building a new wing on the house.

It is not a question of skill, and don't let them hook you with that bait. And it is not a question of your desire to be helpful, either. It is a question of whether or not you want to be imposed on the rest of your life.

It is the old saw about the willing horse that gets worked to death. A handyman who works for nothing gets no thanks! Willie can do anything. Other men finally learn to hate him on sight. His missus is boasting that now he can lay hardwood floors.

When she really gets the hang of sucker exploitation, she buys the dodo more tools so he can't use that as an excuse for not indulging her whims. Unless watched, she will begin to farm out the sap to her friends who need new wicker in chair seats and rehabilitation jobs on lamps.

No, papa, if you have perspicacity you will dummy up when this handyman subject is broached. You will point out that you are too tired when you come home to jack up houses and build new basements under them. You will decline all invitations to learn how to be a glazier in your spare time, or to take up tinsmithing as an avocation.

You will point out that you do not know one tool from another and if pressed for proof will saw off one leg of a chair to prove you are not trustworthy. Otherwise, they will buy blow torches for you and you will have to burn down the house to prove the point.

There is only one handyman setup that makes sense, which is to be a professional handyman and charge for services. And the professionals are no handier around their own houses than they have to be to get board and room. Being in the trade, they know the world is full of women who are full of nutty ideas for keeping handymen so busy they would have no time left to live unless they charged by the hour.

Take it from one who once tried to be a handyman, papa. There is no future in it—nothing but an endless succession of skinned knuckles which will not heal up before the lady of the house is ready with her next idea, which will consist of moving the chimney 7 inches to the west so she can have you build a bookcase large enough to hold a full set of the Encyclopedia Britannica in one continuous row. How does she know how long a shelf that would take? She sent to Chicago for the measurements, silly. That is the fate that lies lurking in the dismal future of handymen—projects, projects, projects ad infinitum, ad nauseam and ad arbitrium which you can look up in the encyclopedia when you have acquired it to fill that bookcase you will be building if you are not careful.

That's a Hot Seat, Chum!

The Enveloping Cold War

By George E. Sokolsky

IF WHAT our military and diplomatic experts say is true, then it is essential for us to hold Western Europe and the Mediterranean countries on our side. This must include Spain as well as Turkey and Greece; the Arab countries and Israel as well as the North Atlantic ones. Although this effort has already cost us greatly, it has not been very successful. Most of the countries of Northern Europe are sitting on their hands, hopeful that they will get whatever benefits accrue without much labor, productivity or sacrifice.

SOKOLSKY

Two wars in which this country came to the aid of Western Europe have produced the historic situation of American responsibility for the next war. And that gives each European country bargaining power with us.

There may be another side to this question! Perhaps the continental Europeans cannot understand what we mean or what we want. They understand Stalin. His presentation of his case is clear-cut. He seeks to establish a universal Socialist state within which existing nations will be permitted a degree of autonomy. His alternative is a constant condition of war and the preparation for war, with attendant costs and disorders.

Even his definitions of socialism are clear, at any rate to a European, because they are based on the Leninist modification of Marxism as interpreted by Stalin. The Marxist basis is, in Europe, more than a century old and is understood. Whereas to Americans Marxism may be confusing, a European high school student can expound dialetical materialism and will be for or against it.

THUS FAR, no American has stated the case for the United States in terms understandable to an educated European or, for that matter, to an educated Asiatic. The only European who has made clear the western opposition to Soviet Russia and to communism has been the Pope.

Again this needs explanation, particularly when so many Catholics and Protestants in the United States are concerned with 16th century problems rather than with the urgencies of the year 1951.

To most Americans the Communists pose an economic question, government ownership of the means of production, distribution and exchange versus private ownership. But two wars, various depressions, revolutions, inflations and other disasters have forced even upon unwilling Europeans socialism in varying degrees, so that private enterprise, capitalism, has not the meaning or the value that it has for Americans. Furthermore, as the European looks upon the United States, this country is marked by an increasing socialism, not a product of mass revolution, but imposed by government using the mechanism of taxation, subsidies and war controls.

THE STRUGGLE then becomes, for the European, philosophic and theological. It has to do with man's place in the cosmos; with the relations of man to his environment; with whether man is a creature of God, created by Him, or whether he is the end result of specialization in a biologic process. Whereas Christianity insists upon absolutes in morals, Marxism insists that man is controlled by an ever-changing environment and that therefore there can be no absolutes.

Translated into political terms, this struggle might be as between a free man, possessing free will and decision, versus the man who has been mastered by the state which controls his environment.

(Each side uses the word, "democracy," falsely and for different reasons. It may be omitted from any serious discussion of the problem.)

From this standpoint, the Pope represents the most clear and articulate statement of the case for a moral versus a mastered society. No one else has stated the anti-Marxist case as understandably or as correctly.

IN AMERICA'S battle against Soviet Russia, then, Marxism is the principal issue. Unfortunately for us, many of those who are engaged in fighting our cause are either Marxists themselves or do not understand Marxism and therefore deal with it incorrectly. If our propaganda agencies have failed in Europe, or have not succeeded as well as might have been expected, it is because they have not been able to approach this problem from the philosophic and theological side. They keep shouting the word, "democracy," which means so many different things that it has become an element of confusion rather than of understanding.

When President Truman appointed General Mark Clark as ambassador to the Vatican, he could have made this clear had he understood the struggle, one side of which he captains. Instead, he has raised a political issue in the United States which can only strengthen the Marxist and therefore the anti-American forces in Europe.

Making Extra Years Happy

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON

IT USED TO be babies and children, now it's the old folks whose health and welfare are a major concern of women's clubs of the nation.

"Eighteen years have been added to the life span within the past century, and what to do with those added years is a problem affecting everybody," says Mrs. John D. Robinson, of Wallace, N. C., national chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs gerontology committee.

"The average working American today is supporting more old people than ever before, partly because so many industries have compulsory retirement and the elderly people have no way of earning a living."

Methods for working out some solution fall into two parts, research and education, Mrs. Robinson said, "Research is being left to specialized fields, but education is up to groups such as ours. The whole thing, however, boils down to the fact that the current problem is one for the community, the neighborhood and the whole town to solve on a local level."

She said "no government or big organization can come in and do for the old folks like the family and their friends and neighbors can, because they mostly need love and affection."

Federation club members are now assisting in recreation, hobby and study programs, or are forming new programs. "The adage that you can't teach an old dog new tricks is not true," Mrs. Robinson said. "It has been proven that a person of 80 can learn as readily as he could at the age of 12." The peak learning ability is at 22, she said, but retention of learning ability is more noticeable in people who have made a practice of learning. She thinks people ought to learn something new every day even if it's only a telephone number.

Mrs. Robinson, vivacious and attractive wife of a physician and mother of two grown children, runs an 8-bedroom mansion and collects antiques. She has invented a money purse which a woman can attach to a lingerie strap. It's called, "Your Bosom Friend," and its sale has been so successful she's had to hire seven women to help turn out the gadgets.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Enemies of The State

(Czechoslovakia, Hungary and other satellites are following Russia in banning the circus clown, holding him banal, bourgeois and a symbol of decadence.—News item)

"The circus clown has got to go."
This is the order straight from Joe;
"He makes the kids laugh heartily,
A loathsome Wall Street policy.
"He brings out screams of wild delight;
A bourgeois practice black as night;
"He brings roars from each tiny tot,
The whole thing is a dirty plot!"

II

"That merry face, that funny wig—
Each somersault, each grin, each jig—
The antics which make faces glow
Are weapons of the vicious foe!
"The putty nose and flapping feet
Are enemies that we must beat;
Those capers aimed to cheer a throng . . .
The salt mines is where they belong!"

III

The phone rang and I hear Joe say,
"Just have him shot without delay!" . . .
It seems somewhere the special staff
Had seen a clown make youngsters laugh;
The fellow hadn't any chance:
They'd caught him in those big loose pants;
Upon his face there was a grin . . .
He was the "ENEMY WITHIN"!

IV

Another message then came through:
They'd caught another clown or two,
Their japeries and grins intact,
About to do a circus act!
"Just seize them, boys and do not wait;
They plot the downfall of the state! . . .
For this they'll very likely hang,
For clowns are such a hostile gang."

V

"Yes, I put on the pantaloons
To help the dirty foreign goons,"
Each clown declares as in a dream,
"It was, of course, a Yankee scheme.
Our slapsticks and our barrel-slats
Came from some U.S. diplomats;
That fellow in a wig of blue
Is from the foreign newsmen's crew!"

L'ENVOI

The hearing was a speedy one;
The verdict simply "Down with fun!" . . .
"Death," says the judge (the gavel pounds) . . .
"We're killing you on circus grounds!"

Kiwanis Hears Chaplain Of State Legion

Rev. Paul Cramer Of Bluffton Tells Of War Experiences

Rev. Paul Cramer of Bluffton, O., pastor of the First Methodist Church there and state chaplain of the American Legion, was guest speaker at the Marion Kiwanis Club weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding.

The speaker told his audience of some of his experiences as a chaplain during the war, when he was with a group of 20 chaplains, including nine protestants, nine Catholics and two rabbis, who went into France and then on to Belgium. He told how the children of Europe regarded the American soldiers as friends.

Rev. Cramer related stories of experiences he had which show how fanatical the Communists are. He explained the Communist has no respect for life and he is willing to die for the ideals of Communism.

Can't Leave Responsibilities

One trouble with the American attitude toward communism, Rev. Cramer said, is that too many people are trying to escape their responsibilities. In these times, a person can't leave responsibility to someone else, each one must accept his own responsibilities. He believes our country and freedom will mean more to us if we have to sacrifice.

Rev. Cramer praised the civic club movement. He gave a few highlights of the national Legion convention held recently in Miami, Fla., telling of the reception given General MacArthur. He explained that the Legion this year on Armistice Day is encouraging peace.

Rev. Cramer was introduced to Kiwanians by Dr. J. B. Holloway, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church here and chaplain of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion. Program chairman for the day was Dr. G. G. Nuetzel.

Introduced as Junior Kiwanians to attend meetings for several weeks were Jim Irvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Irvin of 146 N. Greenwood St., and John Boler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Boler of 374 Silver St., both of St. Mary High School, and Eddie Porter, son of J. E. Porter of 264 N. Seffner Ave., and Tom Tatham, son of Mrs. Florence Tatham of 154 Kenmore Ave., both of Harding High School.

Guests included four Legion members, J. W. Llewellyn, past county commander, Richard W. Moore, Bird-McGinnis Post adjutant, Dr. G. W. Pfleiderer, first vice commander of the post, and Dr. Gerald W. Strauss, second vice commander of the post. Other guests were Richard Brandt and Keith Gibson of Marion.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

With a last theatrical look of reproach at me, Dicky followed Harry Underwood into the corridor, and a few seconds later we heard the door of Dicky's room close.

"That was a near thing," Lillian said in muted tones, with her eyes on the door of the room into which my father had taken Mildred Grey. It was slowly opening, and a second later, my father emerged with Bill's fiancee. He escorted her to a chair and seated her with the ceremonious courtesy which he always offers to any woman. Then he turned to me.

"Where is Harry?" he asked.

"He just went down with Dicky to his room," I said, and I saw him stiffen ever so slightly.

"Did you tell him I was here?" he asked.

"Yes, I did," I said, "but I did not know how long you would be busy, and I asked Harry to tell Dicky what had happened while he was gone."

When he smiled at me, I knew that he had relaxed again.

"It looks as if I should have to throw myself on the mercy of Lillian and Bess," he said. "Mildred is very desirious of an immediate conference with you. If you'll just go with her to the room we just left, you can talk things over at your leisure."

I rose to my feet immediately, and crossed to Mildred's chair, taking her outstretched hand. But as we started for her room, my father's question stopped me.

"How long do you expect Richard and Harry to stay down there?" he asked.

"I told them to stay until I sent for them to come back," I told them, and was surprised when he gave as hearty a laugh as I ever had heard from him.

"You are very transparent, my darling," he said. "I gather that you have some very cogent reason for wishing to keep me apart from my son-in-law."

Sheer desperation gave me courage.

"I have a very good reason," I told him. "May I wait to tell you about it until after I have seen Mildred?"

He gave me a long, intent look, then his lips quirked into a quizzical smile.

"Of course," he said. Then he turned to Lillian and Bess.

"I shall expect you to be very amusing," he told them, and I heard nothing else that he said, for I was hurrying with Mildred to the adjoining room. When we were inside, and the door locked, she faced me tensely.

"I suppose you know why I wished to see you," she said.

"Why, no, my dear, I don't," I told her.

"I want your advice," she said. "But I don't want you to try to spare my feelings when you give it. Will you promise that?"

"Of course, dear girl," I told her. "I am afraid my advice isn't worth much, but such as it is, I freely offer it. What is your particular problem?"

She hesitated for a second that seemed an hour.

"It's rather complicated," she finally said. "I told your father all my fears and the resolve I had made to give up college. His offer is so wonderful I know my parents will approve, but I am at my wits' end to know what to tell Bill."

Newsprint To Continue Scarce

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—Supplies of newsprint will continue scarce through next year, the National Production Authority said yesterday, although it looks for a continued increase in production.

NPA officials reported to publishers who make up the newspaper industry advisory committee that production this year will approximate 6,600,000 tons in North America compared with 6,200,000 tons last year.

Agency officials also estimated that from 40,000 to 50,000 tons probably will be needed in the first half of next year to make emergency shipments to friendly foreign countries.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK

WITH DRUM beat speed the CIO leaders are hammering at our home front war leaders in sharpened pitch, in angry verbal duels, CIO leaders served notice to White House emissaries that not much longer will they go along with confusion and wage controls.

And they warned, "We are going to have growing and extended unemployment sweep key industrial areas if this isn't changed!"

Not even the voice of Eric Johnston, a voice as soothing as that of any performer in the movie industry to which he soon will return, and the promise by him that by early 1953 all wage controls would be lifted, quietly the CIO's leaders.

Victor Riesel

It was the wan, and apparently fatigued Walter Reuther, soon to be operated on for an internal ailment, who had the most bitter criticism For soon, he revealed, there would be 120,000 jobless in Detroit alone, roughly one out of every 10 members of the Auto Union he leads.

"If the mobilization had not been issued, these workers would not today be unemployed," he cried out. "In Detroit this means a loss of 136 million man hours in the first six months of the coming year."

Then, turning bitterly on the Munitions Board and other Federal agencies buying war equipment, Reuther said they are responsible for more time wasted than any hours lost in strikes

"If the unions strike, the country will scream, but more man hours will be lost in the first six months in Detroit than in the next three years in strikes."

THIS HE BLAMED on careless placement of orders in new plants which are being built, although there are available facilities in cities like Detroit. A total of $51 million worth of new factories is being thrown up while the emergency waits and his people go workless.

Reuther charged that while thousands of tanks were built in Detroit during the last unpleasantness, the government now was approving the construction of entirely new tank plants such as one in Newark, Delaware

"There are thousands of unemployed men in Detroit who are experienced at making tanks, but in Delaware they will have to start from scratch training new men," he asserted, hinting at long delays in the actual delivery of the rolling forts to our armies.

There are, for example, battery plants operating part time, Reuther said, yet under government orders one big firm was building three new plants elsewhere to turn out batteries for military production.

HE CHARGED BLUNTLY that the disruption came from lower echelon "colonels and second looies in the procurement offices." These lower agencies are "a government unto themselves" and have failed to mesh civilian and military production.

"They go their merry way and do as they damn please," Reuther roared, disclosing that war production chief Charles Wilson promised him and Philip Murray that they "will channelize defense orders to places where plants and manpower are available"

But this hasn't happened, Reuther said

Reuther's anger, blanching his face under that well known crop of red hair, was reflected by others on the floor of the CIO's 13th Constitutional Convention who felt that the CIO had been too quiet in its criticism of the war effort

Typical was the irritation of CIO Economics Chief Emil Rieve, hard hitting and hard hit Textile Workers' Union leader. Thousands of his followers are jobless and, as Reuther said earlier, the government still is permitting its people to use other facilities for war equipment, although textile workers are being laid off by the tens of thousands, millions of machines are idle, and some mills closing.

ONLY RECENTLY, the U S. Army Quartermaster Corps handed a $12 million wool blanket contract, for a million military blankets, to the prison mill at the Federal pen in Terre Haute

This deal was made in Boston between the prison super, Lester R. Parham, and the Army purchasing agencies there, although Boston is near the center of New England's unemployed textile workers who could well use the number of weeks worth of work required to turn out a $12 million order.

There was no doubt that the CIO leaders were ready to strike hard—on the picket and political lines—if help weren't rushed to their distressed followers immediately. They just aren't going to wait a year and a half.

WHEN THE CHIPS ARE Down . . .

When you were in uniform, you heard a lot of chaps say, "After me—you come first" But somehow, when the chips were down, these Sad Sacks turned out to be pretty good Joes. You found out then it was more like "one for all and all for one"

Well, that's what's known as "comradeship"—the kind you find in the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

That "all for one" spirit is pretty important to you as a civilian too. In the V F W, it means friends—the kind who like to work together for the general good of all concerned and not just for their own selfish advantages.

Once you become an active member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, you will be the first to agree that—

Bustle Coming Back?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

IS THE BUSTLE coming back to America?

Well, there's a rustle in that direction — only the girls themselves don't realize it, says a movie fashion expert.

Charles le Maire says the present wild feminine rush toward fuller cocktail skirts and evening gowns might force a comeback for the bustle against the wishes of women themselves.

Le Maire, who has helped dress and undress a lot of stars as wardrobe director for Twentieth-Century-Fox, is historical rather than hysterical about the situation He approves of the trend toward spreading gowns — but insists they are getting out of hand.

Hal Boyle

"That led to the bustle before — and it may again," he said.

Perhaps you are not aware of the dimensions of the problem, but women after dark now are wearing fluffed out things that make them look like the middle tent in a three-ring circus.

"IT STARTED in Europe last spring—it was a gay social season—and spread here," said Le Maire.

"Women used to brag about who designed their dress. Now they are content to boast, 'It has 25 to 40 yards of material in it.'

"I like the style — it is soft and feminine It is a return to the 1860s. But the women then gradually let their skirts get so wide they couldn't get into carriages or pass through doors So they started pushing their skirts back and they ended with—the bustle."

Le Maire says he hates the idea of a bustle because it creates an unnatural body line—like a rear-uprising falsie.

"The only use I see for a bustle in the modern world is for someone to park a package on it in the Subway," he said.

IT IS HIS idea that the flared skirt has crept up without the average husband realizing it—and that it will change our civilization unless its spread is halted

"I like the big full dress," he said, but—it is changing our lives

"There is no longer a place for a man to sit down. The dress takes up so much space there is standing room only. Architects will have to make doors wider. Furniture will have to be redesigned. It will have to be elastic like the accordian — able to stretch out more.

"And as for closet space? Already the wife with the wide skirts can hang only half her new wardrobe in her own closet So what does she do? She takes up her husband's closet. And where does he find his clothes? Hanging in the bathroom."

Le Maire says its time to call a halt to the ballooning style of after dark dresses—right now.

"Why, 12 or 14 yards of material used to make a big dress even for a movie studio costume outfit," he recalled "But today you order 30 yards of fabric — and pray it will be enough for a modern evening dress"

At the moment he is working on an interesting project—an evening dress for Susan Zanuck, the daughter of producer Darryl Zanuck of Wahoo, Neb The dress will be worn by Miss Zanuck at her debut this month, and certainly is not the least of this year's Hollywood productions.

"It will have 62 yards of white nylon net," said Le Maire dreamily. "Beautiful. . . beautiful."

Death on Indians

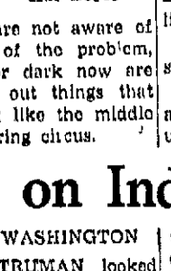
By Inez Robb

WASHINGTON

PRESIDENT TRUMAN looked real spruce and proud the other day as he told the ladies of the Defense Advisory Committee on women in the armed services about his Grandma Young routing a whole band of Indians out in western Missouri in the wagon wheel days.

The story may not get Mr Truman any appreciable number of votes, but it's sure and certain it struck a kindred spark in every other household west of the Mississippi.

The number of true westerners—not the Johnny-Come-Latelys to Southern California from Iowa—who are descended from formidable boldames who once sicked the dogs on the Indians, as Grandma Young did, is scarcely exceeded in this country by the Mayflower descendants.



Inez Robb

And for pure snobbery, the descendants of these trigger-happy pioneer women have the first families of Virginia beat four ways from the jack.

AS A WESTERN WOMAN, it used to be a matter of considerable chagrin to me that my grandmothers, both petite and pretty, had left the shootin' irons to the men in the family.

Grandpa Asbill sort of made up for it by owning an Indian reservation in California and Grandpa Callaway enabled me to look folks in the eye by inclusion in the select group of men in Idaho credited with dispatching to the happy hunting ground the last Indian chieftain to raid the Boise Valley.

By the time I was grown, descendants of three or four other pioneer Idaho families also claimed it was their grandpas who dispatched the marauding chieftain, known as Bigfoot for the logical reason that his feet were heap big by any standard.

Unfortunately, Grandpa Callaway died shortly before I was born, so I never heard the thrilling account of Bigfoot's demise first hand But even when I was growing up in Idaho, Bigfoot was not a man of good repute, although he had been dead for many years Old timers remembered him with a shudder.

I LIKED PRES. TRUMAN'S story of Grandma Young, who had red hair and who got sick and tired of the Indians messing around the homestead Grandma Young lost her temper one day when the Indians seemed menacing and set the dogs, two big shepherds, on them

Well, that's a woman's way: direct action every time.

But Bigfoot was not so obliging He didn't hang around the settlements—just made forays against them.

So Grandpa Callaway and a few other men in the Boise Valley finally set out to track down Bigfoot once and for all

Naturally, we Callaways all think Grandpa was the man who finally turned the trick And the story in our family has grandpa, as talented an Indian scout as ever lived, trailing Bigfoot as deftly and silently as his shadow

Grandpa, by all the signs and portents known to mountain men, was certain that he was not only on Bigfoot's trail but almost on his heels. But when the end came, even grandpa was surprised—according to the Callaway family legend.

GRANDPA SNAKED HIMSELF behind a fallen log, one of the dead giants of the forest, and did the deed so silently that not even his adversary on the other side of the log heard the white man

When Bigfoot cautiously raised his head for reconnaissance, no one was more surprised than grandpa, except possibly Bigfoot Or maybe the Indian never knew what hit him. Because Grandpa, whose reflexes were a caution, never took time to fire his gun. He swung it instantly by the barrel, hit Bigfoot with the stock and that was the last of the Indian warrior.

Anyway, that's our family story, Mr. Truman. Grandpa's rifle with a big notch for Bigfoot is in the Idaho Historical Museum—or it was the last time I visited the place. Kinda hope, Mr Truman, there's a lock of Grandma Young's red hair in the Missouri museum
